

Fall 2017 Annual RCRA/DOT Refresher Training

Regulatory agencies have placed a focus on employee training when conducting facility inspections. In an effort to provide our clients with the opportunity to maintain compliance, ACV Enviro will be conducting an open enrollment training class covering the applicable State and Federal regulations in these two important areas:

The US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and all state environmental agencies (i.e., MA DEP, RI DEM, NH DES, etc.) have regulations requiring the training of personnel who manage hazardous waste. RCRA training will cover requirements specific to each New England State. Before an employee may work in a waste management job, initial RCRA training is required, and all such employees must receive annual refresher training.

The US Department of Transportation (DOT) requires training for everyone who may be considered a "hazmat employee". This term is broadly defined to apply to anyone whose job function could affect the safe transportation of hazardous materials and wastes. Training is thus required for employees who select or fill hazardous materials packages, write or apply labels, complete or sign shipping papers, load or unload vehicles, or operate vehicles to transport hazardous materials. DOT requires this training within three months for new employees and every three years thereafter.

ACV Enviro's training itinerary is designed to provide initial training for new employees who are involved in the management and shipment of hazardous waste, as well as refresher training for established workers. This important training event is detailed below:
